

THE JUBILEE WALK

In 2002 the Town Council created a lasting memorial walk for the Golden Jubilee which is accessible to all, including the disabled and people using pushchairs.

In the Diamond Jubilee year of 2012 the walk was updated to reflect the changes which had taken place over the intervening ten years. The complete walk will take you about two hours but you might want to take your time along the way and rest on one of the 5 official Jubilee memorial benches or one of the many others which are identified on the map. There is also a picnic bench in the play area at Compass Gardens.

The following wildlife jottings are by courtesy of Essex Wildlife Trust and roughly follow the route on the reverse of this leaflet, commencing at the top end of Hullbridge Road.

- A The northern and older part of Hullbridge Road often has small parties of Goldfinches in the mature trees in summer time plus a few Greenfinches too. Grey Herons, probably from Hall Wood, North Fambridge, pass over en route to Woodham Fen and occasionally pause to perch on a rooftop. Watch out for small white herons which also fly over. These are Little Egrets: recent additions to the British breeding list and now more or less resident close to our town.
- B Hullbridge and Inchbonnie Roads often have numbers of Collared Doves. Blackbirds and Robins are the most likely species to be found in town gardens, although reports of Green Woodpeckers all around South Woodham Ferrers are now frequent. Kestrels and Sparrow Hawks are often seen over the town. The number of butterflies varies from year to year, but Holly Blues and Gatekeepers plus the ubiquitous Large and Small Whites are perhaps the most common.
- C The perky little Pied Wagtail is a resident in and around the Town Centre and frequently spotted in Queen Elizabeth II Square.

Compass Gardens has many unusual plants and grasses and a rare over wintering Waxwing was recorded there. Saltcoats Ponds nearby and their adjacent reed beds, a designated S.S.S.I., are also worth investigating.

Heading towards the railway bridge the hedgerows on both sides of the road provide nesting sites for several small birds such as Robins, Dunnocks, Linnets and Whitethroats. Here in high summer a number of Swifts, summer visitors from Central Africa, nest most years and rear numerous offspring.

- D Lastly, the walk will take you past the Garden of Remembrance and along the Burnham Road. To the east the landscape is dominated by Bushy Hill with Marconi's radar demonstration site on its summit.

On one memorable occasion no less than 13 species of butterflies were recorded here including a Purple Hairstreak and a Comma. Common Blues, Essex Skippers, Gatekeepers, and Meadow Browns are often abundant.

This is perhaps the best place to see Green Woodpeckers in South Woodham Ferrers; they may be found both inside and outside Marconi's boundary fence. Other birds nest on the hill including Linnet, summer visiting Whitethroats and several species of the Tit family. On 15^h June 1988 an Osprey was seen flying over the hill in the early evening.

As you complete the walk look for signs of the large numbers of Rooks and Jackdaws that assemble every spring to form a substantial nesting colony on the hill.

South Woodham Ferrers Town Council would like to thank John Frankland of the Local History Society and Ray Trevett of the Essex Wildlife Trust for his nature notes, Without their contributions the production of this leaflet would not have been possible.

THE JUBILEE WALK

- 1. William Tabrums Copyhold – once a range of old cottages including 'Red Cottage Stores'. Now much altered and a private house.
- 2. Plaque - on garden wall (visible, vegetation permitting) unveiled by the Lord Lieutenant of Essex, Sir John Ruggles-Brise, in 1977 to commemorate the Queen's Silver Jubilee.
- 3. Village Hall – Originally 'The Smallholders Hall' on this site opened in 1929 (as can be seen by two surviving foundation stones in the walls), it was replaced by the present hall in 1973. The playing field was given to the village by a local farmer and now contains a children's play area.
- 4. King Edwards Road – a survivor of the long straight 'plotland' roads laid out on the Champions Hall Estate in the 1890's. It was an unmade road until as late as 1978.
- 5. Village Grocers and Dairy Shop – the flats on the corner of King Edwards Road occupy the former site of the town's grocers and dairy shop. The site was developed in 2006.
- 6. Accountants' Offices – occupy the building used as South Woodham's first Post Office.
- 7. 'The Railway' - originally 'The Railway Hotel', then 'The Ferrers Arms'; was built soon after the railway opened. It provided stabling for horses in the early years.
- 8. Railway Workers' Cottages – three pairs of cottages were built to a standard pattern used on the Southminster branch line. They were constructed as part of the railway contract in 1889.
- 9. Railway Station – opened in 1889 by the Great Eastern Railway Company. Once an impressive station with turntable, goods yard, cattle pens, signal box and footbridge.
- 10. Evangelical Church - the present building opened in 1984, replacing the Assembly Mission Hall that opened on this site in 1931.
- 11. Champions Manor Hall – The site of South Woodham's first school (opened in 1929) and a former church (opened in 1930). The site is now owned by South Woodham Ferrers Town Council and houses the Town Council's offices, as well as providing community facilities and a public Bowling Green.
- 12. Women's Institute Hall - The properties 109-115 Hullbridge Road occupy the former site of the town's Women's Institute Hall built in 1927 and the site was redeveloped in 2007.

13. St. Mary's Mission Hall – The residences that form "St Mary's Court" on Hullbridge Road occupy the site of South Woodham's second Church, opened as St Mary's Mission Hall in 1904 and redeveloped in 2007. From here cross Ferrers Road as Hullbridge Road continues towards the river.

14. Orchard Stores – 190 Hullbridge Road, now a private residence, was previously 'Orchard Stores' and formerly 'Cash Stores' it dates from the early 20th century.

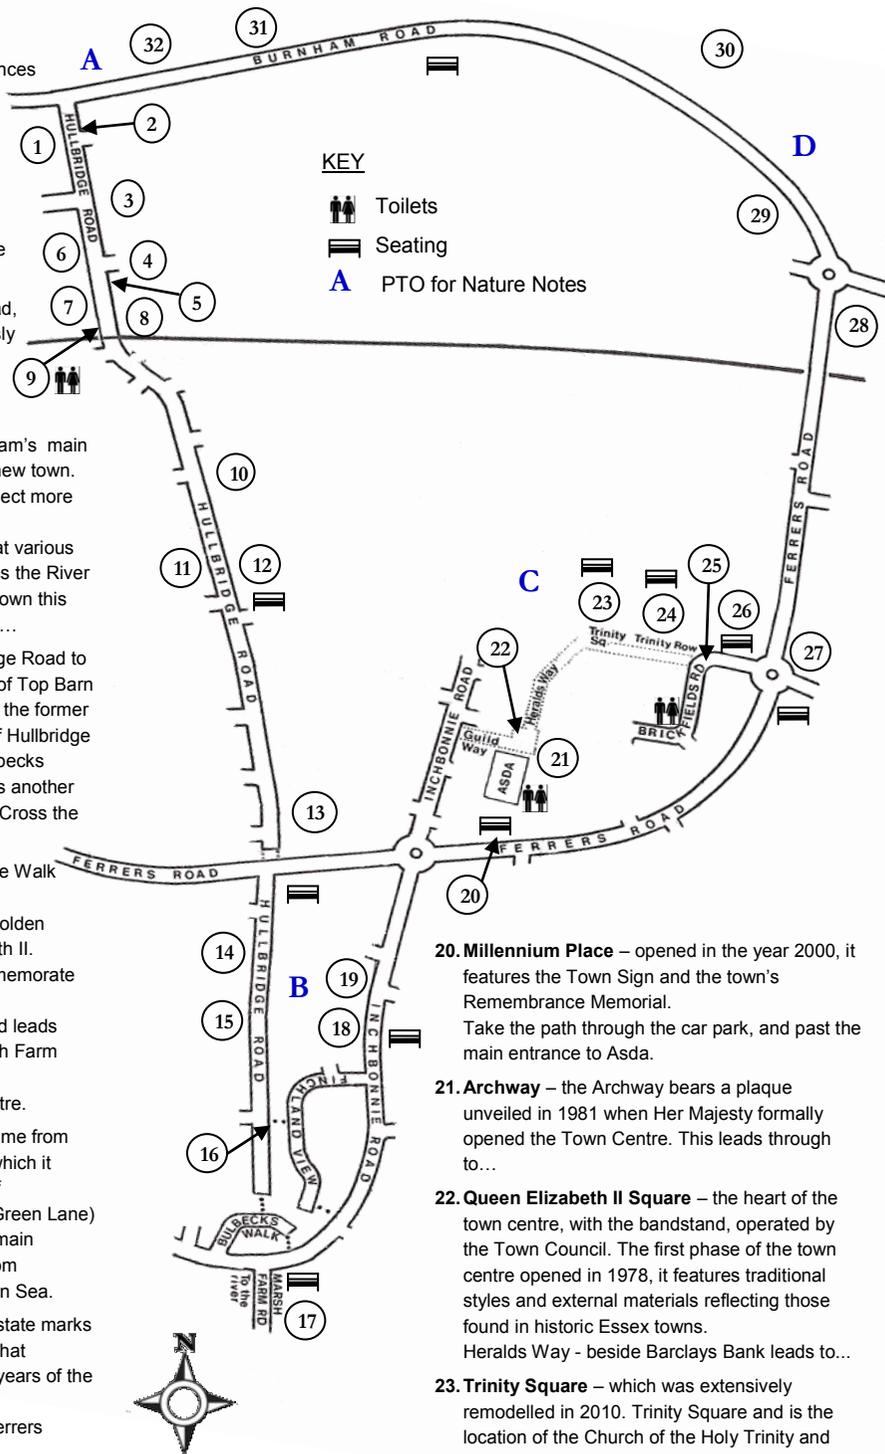

15. Hullbridge Road - was South Woodham's main road prior to the development of the new town. The wide variety of building styles, reflect more than a century of development and redevelopment. Hullbridge Road led, at various times, to a bridge, ferry and ford across the River Crouch to Hullbridge. About halfway down this part of Hullbridge Road you can see a...

16. Footpath – the footpath from Hullbridge Road to Finchland View follows the alignment of Top Barn Lane, one of the old plotland roads on the former Champions Hall Estate. At the end of Hullbridge Road take the footpath through to Bulbecks Walk; bear left, and on the right there's another footpath through to Inchbonnie Road. Cross the road and you'll see...

17. Commemorative Plaque – the Jubilee Walk was originally opened at this point on May 18th 2002 to commemorate the Golden Jubilee of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. The walk was revised in 2012 to commemorate Her Majesty's Diamond Jubilee. It's worth noting that Marsh Farm Road leads down to Essex County Council's Marsh Farm Country Park, and to the riverside. Continue north towards the Town Centre.

18. Inchbonnie Road - which takes its name from the former Inchbonnie Farm through which it passes - the wide verge on this part of Inchbonnie Road (north to Clements Green Lane) provides easement for a major water main through the town, laid in the 1920's from Langford, near Maldon, to Southend on Sea.

19. Pond – the pond within the housing estate marks the site of a small brickmaking works that operated briefly here during the early years of the 20th Century. At the roundabout head east on the Ferrers Road.

24. William De Ferrers Centre, which incorporates the town's library and secondary school. The centre was opened in 1982 and is named after a member of the Ferrers family who owned the Manor of Woodham in the 15th Century. Head east along Trinity Row, past the Starz Youth Club, we come to...

25. Brickfields Road – Brickworks were located near Creekview Road and the name is adopted from the name of an earlier road in the area.

26. South Woodham Leisure Centre – the leisure centre houses the town's swimming pool, gymnasium facilities and a climbing wall. Continue to the roundabout and opposite you'll see...

27. Compass Gardens – developed around a nautical theme, the gardens include walks, outdoor gyms and a skate park. Follow Ferrers Road north, passing Saltcoats park on the right, this former farm has a number of sports pitches, with changing facilities. The name is derived from former salt workings in the vicinity. At the roundabout on the right is the...

28. Garden of Remembrance – a place for contemplation, dedicated in 1995, owned and maintained by the Town Council. Proceed west on the Burnham Road, which forms the northern boundary of the town. After a hundred yards or so you encounter, set back from the road, on the left...

29. Embankment – of the former branch line from South Woodham Ferrers to Maldon. The line was opened in 1889, passenger traffic ceased in 1939, and goods traffic ceased in 1953. To the north is...

30. Bushy Hill (known locally as 'Radar Hill') – the hilltop site was acquired by Marconi in 1954 to study new RADAR techniques and the operational uses of RADAR. It's a popular spot for tobogganing when it snows. After about 800 yards you encounter, on the right...

31. Hamberts Farm – origins of the farmhouse can be traced back to the early 1700's. Further on the right is...

32. Cottage – The cottage on the right was designed in 1901 by noted Chelmsford Architect Frederick Chancellor. He was Chelmsford's first Mayor (a position he held for seven terms) and designed many of our county town's public buildings. A short walk beyond the cottage brings you back to the start of the walk.
